5th ANNUAL TRADE SHOW OPENS FRIDAY

Day $5,000 Archery Shoot Follows National Here Aug. 1

Journey To Test Sport For A Major Professional Effort

Sixteen Archers To Be Eligible

A new thousand dollar cash prize was dropped into U. S. archery by Fred Bear, internationally famous big game bowhunter, at the Michigan Bowhunters Banquet held at Detroit, Saturday, April 12.

He disclosed that he was putting up a $5,000 purse for a one day tournament to be held at the Michigan National Guard Camp at Grayling, August 1st.

The offer is being made as an experiment to determine whether archery is being made as a major professional effort. According to tentative plans, only 16 contestants will be eligible. It will be the top 8 men and women archers competing in the 13th annual National Field Archery Association championship also being held at the camp, July 28-31.

In the event any of the top 8 decline an invitation to enter, the next contestants in tournament rankings will be given a bid to compete.

In making his announcement, Bear said he expected that the offer might cause considerable speculation, and possibly some controversy concerning professionalism vs. amateurism, but that in sounding out sentiment prior to making a decision, many archers had expressed favorable opinions.

"Many seem to think that it will make archery somewhat akin to bowling where there is actually no professionalism, but everyone does compete for some kind of cash remuneration," Fred Bear said.

For many years the noted archer has wondered whether or not a field tournament of top flight archers might attract as much interest as a pro-golf tournament. Because field archery tournaments are ordinarily conducted in wooded areas to simulate actual hunting from whence the sport derives its current popularity it's been difficult for a gallery to follow the progress of a shoot.

Bear's proposal: The special course for the Bear National Invitational is out in the open rolling hills beside Lake Margrethe near the National Guard Camp. In setting and in sponsor, it is similar to that of sporty golf courses. There will be plenty of vantage points for a gallery to follow the progress of the shoot.

From 3 to 5 thousand spectators will be on hand to witness the event according to the sponsor. Most of these will be drawn from the ranks of archers and their families who will stay an extra day following the National Field Archery Association tournament to witness the first major money tournament in the modern era of the sport.

Historically, the event has a relationship with the sport extending back to the Civil War and the origin of modern archery in the U. S.

It was two confederate soldiers, Will and Maurice Thompson, who, forbidden by post war regulations against possessing firearms, revived the sport.

The brothers, finding their Georgia plantation destroyed, went to Florida to recover from war wounds. In order to hunt legally, they struck up a friendship with the Seminoles who taught them the intricacies of the bow and arrow as a practical hunting tool.

Maurice Thompson, who became a capable writer, did a series of articles about his Florida experiences for Scribner's magazine in 1877 and 1878. As a result of national interest created by his excellent writing, the Chicago Archery Association called a meeting for the purpose of organizing a national association to promote the sport. The meeting was held at the mayor's office in Grayling, Ind., where Thompson was then living.

The National Archery Association was formed and sponsored its first national tournament at White River, Ind., where Thompson was then living.

Joe Cinciala has bought the corner lot at Spruce and Lake Streets from Tony Nelson. Jack Millikin has bought the house and plans to move it to near the Moresby cabins on the East Branch.

Dad Hanson's store has been repainted throughout. The Warren Hatfields have had their house completely remodeled and redecorated since it was damaged by fire. They have new pine paneling, new large windows in the living room and kitchen, new flooring, and have had the chimney built outside the utility room instead of inside the house as before.

The Gary Hatfields have installed wood fencing around part of their lawn as a play yard.

In the absence of a regular program at Monday night's meeting of the Kiwanis Club of Grayling, held at Shoppetons Inn, Jack Alef led a discussion of the clean up, paint up and fix up campaign in Grayling for this spring.

The club was glad to welcome back from the south Art Oling, who had spent most of the winter and Herb Wolff who had spent several weeks in the warmer climate.

Death Takes Col. Roy Vandercook

Funeral services were held Monday at 11 o'clock for Col. Roy Vandercook, 84, who died at his home near Williamston last Saturday morning. Colonel Vandercook was one of the best known public figures in Lansing and was a summer resident on the AuSable near Grayling for many, many years.

He organized the State Police back in World War I days and was a newspaperman before he became legislative counsel for all Michigan railroads, a position he held until his retirement two years ago.

Five years ago the State Police dedicated a flag-pole properly inscribed to those who visited the police headquarters. In the story, "Erected in honoring Col. Roy C. Vandercook, founder and first commander of the Michigan State Police, 1917-1923."

At the base of the pole is a bronze plaque which tells the story. "Erected in honoring Col. Roy C. Vandercook, founder and first commander of the Michigan State Police, 1917-1923."

Col Vandercook had many firsts to his credit. A newspaperman he was the first Lansing correspondent of Booth Newspapers and the first and longest correspondent of the Associated Press.

After serving in the Spanish-American war, Col. Vandercook returned to Lansing as capital reporter for the Lansing Journal during the administration of Gov. Hazen S. Pingree.

From the days of Pingree to the present, Col. Van had known them all.

Gov. Chase S. Osborn made him adjutant-general of the state which gave him a place on the military board. Under Vandercook the state acquired the Grayling military reservation.

In 1917 Vandercook became public relations counsel for the Pere Marquette railroad. During World War I he served as secretary of the war board which directed the organization of the home guards.

Under Gov. Albert E. Steeper, the state police was organized and Vandercook became the first commander. In those days the troops lived in barracks that failed to keep out the winter snows or summer heat.

With the war over, Vandercook resigned to become manager of the Michigan Railroad Association, a position he held until recently.

His widow, Ruth, survives. Also surviving are a daughter and a son.

Each year the Roscommon Rotary Club presents a home talent minstrel show that affords local people the tops in entertainment and this year's show, according to Chairman Earl Cornett, promises to exceed all previous performances.

One of the highlights of this year's show is a mixed chorus of trained voices, recruited not only from the Roscommon area but from neighboring cities, who will be singing the old time and popular favorites.

This is undoubtedly the first time such an outstanding presentation of mixed voices has ever been presented in northern Michigan and will be something no one will want to miss.

Of course, too, there will be the ever popular end men and intercomedian banter that always makes for a jolly occasion.

In spite of the added feature attractions, the price of admission will remain the same — 75c for adults and 25c for students.

Jack Pine thought he was sick last week — that's just the half of it tonight. He is just plain miserable — he has asked the poorest writer, that I know, to substitute for him. Of course, the fact that I am the OWL person within shouting distance may have something to do with it. So this week you will hear from Mrs. Jack Pine.

Mrs. JP
On many occasions during the last three years while reading the column entitled "The Owl," I have said, "SOME day I am going to write one of those and then I'll get even." On many more occasions I have thought it. Now that I have my chance it just doesn't seem that any of my nasties are worthy of comment. (And that statement will probably out old JP more deeply than anything I could say.)

Mrs. JP
I have a note here which Jack received during the last week about the time he was in the hospital. It seems that someone has broken into a guest house doing the usual sort of things in the way of destruction — tearing up electrical wires, tangle fishing lines, making a mess of things. It's a pity that the deceptively to use the bathroom for the purpose that they should, but rather the living room carpet. Now how animal can humans be?

Mrs. JP
Jack also had a letter from a local citizen in a long time citizen, in fact saying that he has felt that undue emphasis has been placed on the Senior Skip Day trips. He has felt — and I agree that these kids devote a lot of time and effort from the Seventh Grade on through High School earning money so that they might spend a few days together. Most of this time is spent on a bus or a train. The letter continues, "I have heard parents say that their marks drop with each surge of activity. It is all the money, energy and time were devoted to the true reason for going to school, it seemed to me that much better results would be obtained in the way of better prepared minds."

Mrs. JP
Now our friend has changed his mind completely. He has heard of the plans of the Senior class of 1958. This class is going on a Senior trip — as a conservative as possible — and put the rest of their money into a fund to help one of their class members. Tom Edwards. The writer of the letter, Jack Pine and myself, and the entire community, I am sure, are mighty proud of the Senior Class.

Mrs. JP
However, I do think that the first paragraph of this letter could be a source of some "food for thought" for the underclassmen at Grayling High. Consider it a minute — which is more important to you — preparing yourself intellectually for college and/or life or having 4 days in the "Big City". Now that sounds very true but consider the hours that each spends selling stationery, magazines, etc. and working on other money making projects. Could this time be better spent in other ways? I am not saying that class money should be done away with. All families, clubs and organizations. Sea room. Sea room. Sea room.

Guilty Plea Brings Prison

A plea of guilty on two charges brought two sentences to Southern Michigan Prison for Charles Polinski, 22, of Star Route, Grayling when he appeared before Circuit Judge John C. Shaffer here Monday.

Polinski and a companion, Larry Love, 19, of Star Route, Grayling, were arrested on March 11 in West Branch by State Police and charged with auto theft and breaking and entering. The pair accompanied by Paul Seelich 19, of Detroit, stole a car in Roscommon and drove to Lovells where they broke into Roy Scott's bar. Sheriff John A. Papendick of Crawford County said.

Judge Shaffer sentenced Polinski to one to five years on the charge of unlawfully driving away a car and three to fifteen years on the breaking and entering charge. The sentences are to be served concurrently and a recommendation was made for the minimum sentence.

Love is awaiting a jury trial in Roscommon Circuit Court after pleading not guilty to the car theft charge. Seelich is being held in Detroit on another criminal charge and probably will not be prosecuted here for his part in the car theft and breaking and entering.

Michigan To Sing Own Praises To World From May 4 to 10 This Year

Michigan Will Sing its own praises to the rest of the world
May 4-10.

This year Michigan Week takes on an added seriousness in the quest for new industry and more jobs to counter an economic situation which hit with harder impact here than in other states.

It is the week each year set aside for the state to assess its progress in all phases of life. The Working committees have been appointed in industry, business,
the arts, education and government affairs.

On May 5, the mayors and city presidents of more than 380 municipalities will change places for a day, to pick up new ideas and observe how the other fellow lives.

The program was started five years ago by the State Department of Economic Development
with the slogan, "Michigan is a Great Place to Live."

The department has figured prominently in the controversy over whether taxes are driving industry out of Michigan and discouraging existing firms from expanding.
But once a year, the department
organizes the week-long observance on the theory that it is hard to ignore a place where everyone is so proud.

Republican Leaders of the more conservative bent are trying to disprove the old theory that
"Nothing Succeeds Like Success."
For 10 years, Democrats have held the governor's office and have later gained control of all other executive posts.
Republicans have brought them salvo after salvo, charging that their party has been trying to emulate the formula of success of Gov. Williams and the Democrats.

Senator John P. Smeekens (R-Caldwell) said the party should come up with its own ideas and techniques — basing its appeal on the conservatism which made it great in the past.

The idea is not new. It was sounded by the late Senator Robert Taft, Ohio, and others.
On a national scale, it was repeated by Senator Knowland, of California, who campaigned for governor on a platform containing the "right-to-work" proposal.
This idea, that a worker may not be forced to join a union to keep his job, or obtain one, had been called political suicide.

"It wouldn't be possible to pass the bill in Michigan right now, but it would be a good campaign issue," said one leading Republican.
Senator Smeekens' idea:
"I believe the voter should have his choice as between two parties,
not a me and me too choice."

Airplane Passengers cannot demand that the pilot stop and let them off at the next corner.
That's why Michigan, in its "Guest Passenger Act" imposed severe liabilities on the pilot — until the 1958 legislature made the changes.

The bill, which legislators considered a mistake after any chance of reserving themselves was gone, gives the pilot of an airplane a better break than the driver of a car.

The driver can be held liable for damages if he carries guest passengers. The pilot can be held responsible only for negligence.
Voters will write the final chapter for the 1958 legislature next November long after the lawmakers have gone home to campaign for re-election.

They have made the issue clear for the man who steps into the booth and pulls the curtains next November 4th.

The question will be whether he wants more economy and less government or expanded services from state government and expects to pay for them in taxes.

Republicans in the legislature have gone through the mental torture of self-examination and re-planning their hopes next November 4th on economy.
The Republicans who head the committees who will determine state spending for next year have taken heart.

They make their decisions from behind stacks of telegrams and letters encouraging them to cut out "some of the frills" in state government and keep taxes at the present level.

"You've got a lot of courage and we're for you in your campaign for economy," said one letter to a GOP finance leader.
The other side of the coin shows
the increased pressure for services.

Education is the major item.
Universities and colleges claim that their academic programs will be damaged if the proposed reductions from current appropriations stand.

ax Cut Looks Certain . . .

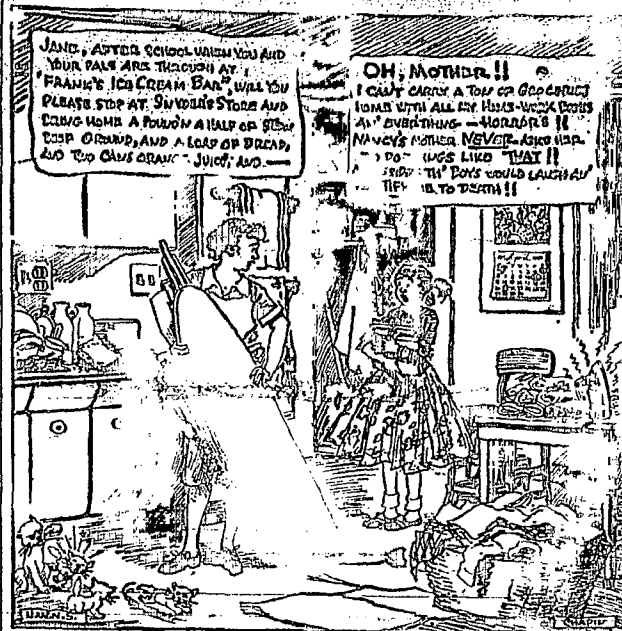

Just a few months ago, when Russia launched Sputnik I, it seemed fanciful to talk seriously about early reduction in this country. Many then thought, as matter of fact, that there was a real likelihood of tax increases right up to a war-time level.

Sputnik II is still in orbit, circling the earth, and is now accompanied by the U. S. Army's Explorer and the U. S. Navy's Vanguard. Military spending is soaring, and as Stewart Alsop writes (and most of the other well-informed commentators are now saying much the same thing) "a big tax cut can be written down as a lead certain unless there is a sudden and totally unexpected economic upturn." Leaders of both the parties are now leaning that way, and each side, naturally enough, will try to exploit the greatest possible political advantage from whatever is done.

"Within the Administration," Mr. Alsop also writes, "there is no longer any resistance whatsoever to a big tax cut, if the economic slide continues. The only debate is on timing and size of the cut." One Administration group which, it is believed is led by Vice-President Nixon, wants the cut to be no less than $5 billion, and would like more. It also wants to move quickly. The President and the Secretary of the Treasury, on the other hand, regard the $5 billion as a maximum figure, and are inclined to delay action until a clearer picture of what the economy is going through emerges.

Just what form or forms the tax cut will take when it comes is a highly controversial matter now. Many proposals are in the wind. Some want to "forgive" all part of withholding taxes for a period of time, on the ground that this would bump money into the channels of consumption in the shortest period of time. Some want to increase the individual exemptions from the present $600 to $700 or $800 — a move which would give most of the benefit to bottom-bracket taxpayers. Some favor an across-the-board cut of, say, 10 per cent. This, naturally, would give more of the cash to the middle and upper bracket taxpayers. And there are other ideas, such as fixed tax credits for each member of the taxpayer's family, and an increase in the optional standard deduction, which is now 10 per cent or, of deductible items are listed, a maximum of $1,000. Either of these plans would primarily benefit lower-bracket taxpayers.

If we have a tax cut along with greatly increased government spending, what is going to happen? One thing is sure — the government will again engage in deficit financing on a huge and perhaps unprecedented scale. That deficit, as Mr. Alsop sees it, could even be of a size " . . . to make the eyes of the most daring New Deal pump-primer bug out" — that is, $10 billion or more. The actual size, of course, will in large part be determined by government revenues which in turn depend upon individual and business incomes. As of now, these revenues will be much below the earlier estimates. It is the hope of the advocates of big tax cuts that pump-priming will change that situation.

Finally, one little word should be mentioned here — inflation. Will these pending government policies and actions set off a new and major inflationary wave and cheapen the dollar some more? Millions of people have that question in mind today.

Interesting Events In Grayling 23 Years Ago

INTERESTING ITEMS OF NEWS GATHERED FROM THE FILES OF THE AVALANCHE OF 23 YEARS AGO

April 18, 1935

In spite of chilly winds and snow flurries spring is on the way and plans must be made to improve the appearance of our town. It has been mentioned before that a drive is on to beautify the highway from Mt. Pleasant to Cheboygan, and Grayling is out to lead other towns in this project. The Civic League is offering prizes of $5 and $3 to the gas station making the greatest improvement to road beautifying its building and grounds. The same amounts will be offered in prizes to private property situated on the highway. Judges will be Dr. C. G. Clippert, Mrs. A. J. Joseph, Mrs. C. R. Keyport, Mrs. Louise Connine and Albert Roberts, who will pass out the prizes in late summer.

As we announced to the people of this city, the date for the homecoming is all set for July 14 to 21 inclusive, and the committee on this great event is sending out announcement notices this week and preparing their plans and program. Already we have had several inquiries as to the exact dates so from far and near our Legion Jottings are read.

The well known Collen resort property on Lake Margrethe has been sold and will be converted into a modern pleasure resort. Dr. R. A. VanVleck of Bellefontaine, Ohio, is the purchaser. Dr. VanVleck has been coming to Grayling for several years past and likes it so well here that he is now becoming one of our regular summer citizens.

Quite an exciting time was experienced in the Eudorado neighborhood last Thursday night when the farm home of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Stevens burned to the ground with practically all its contents. Mr. and Mrs. Stevens were both away at the time of the fire. Mrs. Stevens having been called to Royal Oak by the death of her mother. The place was in charge of Louis Trehan, who was attempting to light a fire in the sitting room stove, using what appeared to be kerosene from a can. There was an explosion and the flaming contents of the can were scattered about the room and over his clothing. He escaped with only minor burns, but by the time he was able to summon help the fire had made such progress it was possible to save only a few things.

Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Palmer had as their weekend guests the former's sister, Mrs. Betty Wilson, and Harry Lungner of Bay City.

City Engineer C. A. Miller and Calvin Church were in Lansing Tuesday where the former appeared before the State Public Utilities commission to represent the Village Council in its protest against what they believe to be excessive electric rates charged by the Michigan Public Service Co. here in Grayling.

The second annual billiard tournament began Tuesday evening.

Mrs. Vallad will stay in Standish with her son for a time after spending the winter here.

After Sunday being just a beautiful spring day, natives awakened Monday morning to find the ground covered with several inches of snow and the temperature down to about 18 above. There had been a real blizzard during the night of rain, hail and snow.

For all of that we have had unusually nice weather for April. Fr. Joseph Herr and sister, Miss Constance arrived in Grayling this afternoon, returning from spending a most pleasant winter in San Antonio, Texas.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Editor:
Every week in reading our local newspaper, we encounter several articles expressing thanks and appreciation to the staff of Mercy Hospital here in Grayling.

I would like to say my "thank you" in the following form: We,
in the community and surrounding area can be proud of the new modern Hospital we have. It must be about the last word as hospitals go in the state. Although, the greatest part of this hospital is in its personnel. I could not explain the deep feeling of respect which I acquire for the nurses. Sisters of Mercy, the Chaplain, during my recent illness and confinement in the hospital. My thanks also to Dr.
Dorch, his prescriptions worked fine.

Sincerely,
Charles Holtcamp
